PALAU SIREN

Palau Spawning

Koror to Koror | Rock Islands Southern Lagoon

Palau at Full Moon and New Moon is one of the great gatherings of the sea.

At Full Moon tens of thousands of red snappers rise from the deep and change colour from red to white, while bull sharks and oceanic blacktip sharks hunt within the school.

At New Moon hundreds of bumphead parrotfish gather for a noisy mating dance, rising from the sandy bottom to the surface like a firework display.

After dark, blackwater dives reveal creatures from the depths, many smaller than your fingernail, among the strangest animals you will see without a submarine.

THE DIVING

Dive sites

Chandelier Cave

A gorgeous cave system, containing four separate chambers with stalactites and stalagmites thus creating a ‘chandelier’ effect.

Teshio Maru

On her way to seek refuge from the American attacks, the Teshio Maru was bombed and strafed by a passing US fighter north of the Malakal harbor, during “Operation Desecrate One” on March 30th 1944.

Iro Maru

This Japanese oil supply ship, sunk during ‘Operation Desecrate’, lays upright in 20m (75ft) of clear blue water.

Chuyo Maru

Located just west of Malakal Island, this is a medium sized Japanese coastal freighter that was also sunk during World War II.

Jake Seaplane

Jake was a reconnaissance floatplane that is believed to have crashed during take-off.

Ulong Channel

Often considered the best dive in Palau, this exhilarating drift dive has it all; hard and soft coral encrusted walls, schools of sharks and other pelagic action, a beautiful stand of lettuce coral as you drift through the channel, and plenty of groupers just to name a few.

Siaes Tunnel

Siaes Tunnel offers divers an awesome experience as they dive through a naturally lit tunnel with several windows where they can experience endemic species only normally seen in deeper water.

Shark City

Southwest of Ulong Island, a wall dive where currents attract many large pelagic fish from grey reef sharks to the occasional sighting of a bull shark.

Sand Bar

This shallow sloping reef featuring garden eels and stingrays is also the place where hundreds of thousands of bumphead parrotfish are known to congregate for spawning; this stunning spectacle may only be witnessed at certain times of the month during the right moon phase.

Blue Corner

The most famous dive site in Palau, World-class diving does not get much better than Blue Corner!

Blue Holes

Just along the reef from Blue Corner, is a large cavern with four “blue holes” at the top allowing natural light to enter from above.

New Drop Off

Located south of Blue Corner on a shallow plateau.

Big Drop Off

Another one of Palau's famous wall dives.

German Channel

This artificial channel was created during the German occupation (1899 – 1914) to enable easier transportation of the phosphates they were mining.

Virgin Blue Holes

Just south of Blue Corner, this site offers divers swim throughs and caverns to explore, before exiting onto the reef wall.

Dexter's Wall

A wonderful wall dive filled with soft corals, sea fans, nudibranchs, anemones and sea turtles.

Peleliu Cut

A site where we can experience some of the strongest currents of our trip due to converging ocean currents that flow around the archipelago.

Yellow Wall

Named after the golden yellow cup corals (Tubastraea faulkneri) that cover the wall along this area of the reef, Yellow Wall is located northeast of Peleliu Express.

Peleliu Express

Located at the southernmost tip of Peleliu Island, the open ocean currents converge bringing in large schools of pelagic fish.

Barnum's Wall

A favourite spot for a night dive.

Peleliu Wall

Covered with black corals and large sea fans, this huge wall allows for an easy drift dive whilst observing reef sharks, jacks and barracuda.

Orange Beach

A soft drift dive along a colourful coral garden.

South Dock

A beautiful reef wall where divers can find parrotfish, surgeonfish as well as whitetip reef sharks cruising.
