GOOD TO KNOW

On land and on the way

Rasdhoo

Strong currents and exciting channel dives, with excellent chances of hammerhead sharks, grey reef sharks and big pelagics in crystal clear water.

Ari Atoll

Famous for whale sharks, manta rays and beautiful pinnacles teeming with life.

Vaavu Atoll

Thrilling channels, called kandus, and night dives with nurse sharks.

Meemu Atoll

Dramatic channels, overhangs and colourful soft corals, with superb drift diving and frequent grey reef sharks and other big animals.

Malé Atoll

A mix of colourful reefs and wreck dives.

Diving experience

Divers need at least 30 logged dives, Advanced Open Water or an equivalent certification, and Nitrox certification. Divers who have not dived for more than two years, or who are unsure of their skills, should take a refresher course before the trip, and less experienced divers may be kept from the more challenging sites.

How the diving works

All dives are guided by experienced dive professionals, and all the diving is on Nitrox. Dives are made in self-reliant buddy teams with experienced guides, and divers must be able to make independent ascents, using a surface marker buoy when necessary. Briefings are in English, German, Italian and Spanish. Dives start from the dhoni, the dive boat. There is no diving on the arrival or departure days, and divers make two or three dives a day, usually three, with a night dive on every trip. The last dive is on the day before disembarkation, and divers should wait 24 hours after the last dive before flying.

Snorkelling

The boat welcomes snorkellers.

Good to know

Spare and rental equipment is available on board. The minimum age for divers is 18.

Good to know

Because tiger sharks and bull sharks can come very close, black equipment, black fins, a black hood and a black full-length wetsuit are recommended, and bright colours are best avoided.
