Triton Bay

Kaimana to Kaimana | Triton Bay and the Kaimana Marine Protected Area

Triton Bay is far eastern Indonesia at its quietest, with an extraordinary fish to human ratio, more space and unspoiled reefs.

Whale sharks gather around the traditional fishing platforms near Namatota Island, drawn by the anchovies that the fishermen's nets attract.

The reefs of the Kaimana Marine Protected Area have black coral, plate corals and soft coral gardens.

In the Iris Strait, nutrient-rich currents feed the reefs and bring schools of pinjalo snapper together with fusiliers and surgeonfish.

For macro enthusiasts the area is a species factory, with the walking shark and the Nursalim flasher wrasse among the favourites.
