Ambon Banda Sorong

Ambon to Sorong | The Banda Islands, Misool and Raja Ampat

Deep Banda Sea water brings the big fish, with schooling trevallies, barracudas, tuna, turtles, and hammerhead and grey reef sharks close to the underwater mounts.

In the shallows by the old Banda jetty, mandarin fish gather at one of the best spots in the world to see them.

Halfway to Raja Ampat, one small island has walls of soft corals and aggregations of red snappers, batfish and giant groupers.

Misool is famous for steep rocks with vertical walls and sea fans draped brilliantly over the reefs.

Offshore pinnacles bring shoals of bannerfish and snappers, with oceanic manta rays at a cleaning station.

Nusa Laut and Molana

3 Dives

Early morning, we arrive at the beautiful Amet Reef.
Whilst situated only a few hours from Ambon, it is a great example of successful grass roots conservation efforts.
The locals have instilled sustainable methods to protect their reef and as a result, the corals are outstanding and a favorite amongst dive enthusiasts.
White tips and reef sharks patrol the depths and playful turtles can be spotted.
For the incredibly lucky, hammerhead sharks and dugongs have also been spotted at this site.
After lunch, we will navigate to Molana Wall.
The shallow wall breaks in places and in the sandy slopes, ribbon eels, small pipefish, and moray eels can be found.
Above the reef, turtles are seen feeding in the beautiful coral garden.
In the afternoon, we will navigate towards Pulau Ai & PulauRun (Banda Islands).

DAY 3

Pulau Ai and Pulau Run

3 Dives

Early morning, we arrive in Pulau Ai.
This dive site, on the island of Ai, translates to Umbrella Rock as there are many overhangs along the walls of the island.
You will be able to drift along the wall and enjoy the view of thousands of tiny reef fish darting in and out of the cracks and crevices.
For the second dive of the day, we'll move onto Little Manhattan which is next to the island of Run.
In 1667, the English traded the island of Run for Manhattan, giving the Dutch full control of the Banda archipelago.
White sandy slopes interspaced with large coral heads and a healthy reef make this a very beautiful dive site.
A resident school of bumphead parrotfish may be spotted here, as well as passing eagle rays.
The third dive for the day will be an exploratory dive off Pulau Run.

You will spend the morning walking through the town and be given the chance to observe the Dutch colonial architecture which remains to this day, as well as Fort Belgica with its incredible views overlooking the bay around the island.
Before lunch, you will dive at Batu Kapal, which when translated means 'boat rock'.
A submerged pinnacle, the site has a rock breaking the surface of the water in the shape of a boat, hence the name.
Banda Islands 3 Dives Various types of fish are present here in vast numbers, along with huge gorgonian fans and some truly monumental sponges.
Your second dive will be at Pohon Miring.
At this site, a large crack in the reef creates a deep swim-through which you can drift through and view the spongecovered wall on the other side.
Moral eels can be spotted at the top of the wall as well as schools of bumphead parrotfish.
Late in the afternoon, you will have a sunset dive at Banda's jetty.
In the shallows and amongst the stones from collapsed sea walls and jetties, mandarin fish congregate.
This particular spot is one of the best in the world to spot mandarin fish.

DAY 5

Banda Islands

3 Dives

Karang Hatta is a reef located South East of Pulau Hatta.
The dive sites in this region are closest to the 6,000-metre-deep Banda trench, making it an intriguing area as the chances of encountering pig pelagic species are quite high.
Schooling trevallies, barracudas, tuna, turtles, as well as hammerhead and grey reef sharks can be spotted close to this underwater mount.
You will have two dives in this area, dependent upon the conditions, and then sail to the main island of Pulau Hatta where you will dive in front of the West shore beach where a 5meter hole in the reef opens up to the sea.

DAY 5

3 Dives

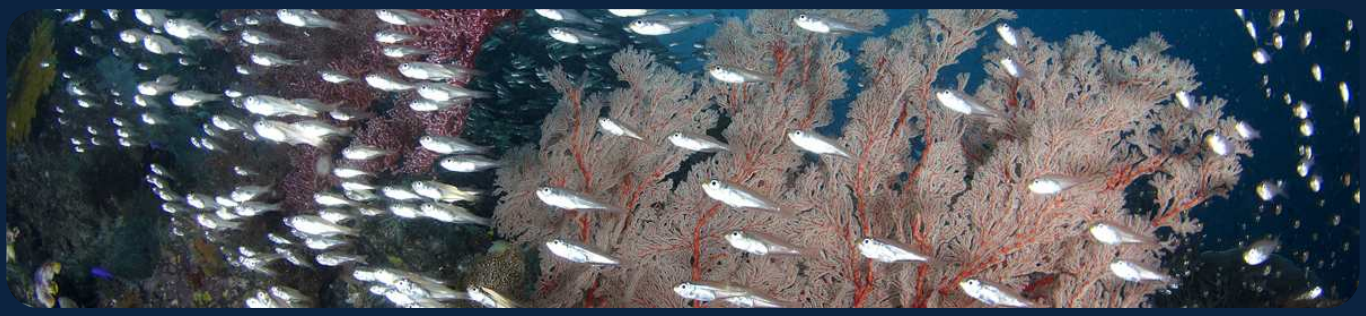

You can dive down through the hole and find yourself looking back to what appears to be a bridge in the reef.
The bridge is covered with soft corals, and large gorgonian fans underneath are home to various pigmy seahorses.
Overnight navigation to Pulau Koon. .

DAY 6

Pulau Koon, Ceram

3 Dives

Pulau Koon is a small island on the southeast of Ceram, half way between Raja Ampat and the Banda Islands.
Underwater there are walls covered in soft corals and sandy slopes with hard coral bommies.
But the most interesting feature of this island is the amount of schooling fish and pelagic, barracudas, bigeye trevallies, aggregation of red snappers, pompanos, batfish, and giant groupers.
3 great dives in this area before setting sailing towards Misool Raja Ampat.
Days 7 - 11 Southern Raja Ampat/Misool 16-18 Dives Misool is located South of Raja Ampat and is famous for its steep rocks with vertical walls, profusion of soft, colourful corals, sea fans draped brilliantly over the reefs and plenty of fish.

Shadow Reef, also known as Magic Mountain is one of the toprated diving sites in Raja Ampat.
An offshore pinnacle with a long and narrow ridge, shoals of bannerfish, pyramid butterfly and yellow snappers can be seen cavorting on top of the ridge, persistently stalked by giant trevallies, orange-spotted jacks & longnose emperors.
The ridge goes progressively down, with yellowtail barracudas patrolling the upper sector and white tip and grey reef sharks found nestled under the large coral tables.
At the end of the peninsular is a cleaning station where oceanic manta rays come to be cleaned from parasites by wrasse and other reef fish.
Shadow Reef, Jamur Boo, Yellit Kecil or Besar + Night Dive Boo Rock or Jamur Boo is known for the “windows” or rounded openings on the end of the largest rock that completely pierce the reef from the surface down to five meters deep.
Although the two rocks appear separate from the surface, they are in fact connected underwater by a magnificent reef draped in soft corals and brimming with fish.
Reef sharks, parrotfish, surgeonfish, schooling batfish, fusiliers, snappers, and moray eels are all found here, as well as a wide variety of nudibranchs, unicornfish, octopus, and green turtles.
Yellit Kecil’s (whilst sharing all of the attributes of its neighboring sites) main characteristic is the large number of nembrotha nudibranchs that can be observed on the ridge.

DAY 9

Yilliet

3 Dives

Sites include Whale Rock, Nudi Rock and Tank Rock.
In the early morning, we will take short navigation to dive into the Fiabacet area, where colorful soft corals and beautiful sea fans smother the reefs.

In certain areas, the ridge moves up shallower to form the most amazing dive sites of the park.
