MALDIVES AGGRESSOR

Best of the Maldives

Male to Male | Male, South Male, Ari, Vaavu and Meemu

The central atolls of the Maldives are channel country, where grey reef sharks, eagle rays and schools of jacks and snappers sweep past in the current.

Manta rays gather at cleaning stations, and a shallow reef on the southern tip of Ari is known as the best place in the Maldives to spot whale sharks, which patrol it all year round.

Sea fans hang in overhangs and soft corals glow along the channels.

One of the best night dives in the Maldives puts on a show of nurse sharks, stingrays and massive jacks every night.

THE DIVING

Dive sites and life on board

Male Atoll: Lankan Beyru (Manta Point)

The main attraction is manta rays at the cleaning station in the south-west monsoon. Easy access with small currents, and often a good dive to start the week. A coral block covered with anemones, with whitetip reef sharks, turtles and napoleon wrasse.

Male Atoll: Rasfari Corner

A shallow plateau at 3 to 6 metres on the west side of the atoll, next to the Rasfari lagoon, with a manta cleaning station in the north-east monsoon, and a wall dropping to about 23 metres covered in hard corals, with turtles.

South Male: Kandooma Thila

Number one of the best dive sites in South Male. A long thila in the middle of the channel, with grey reef and whitetip sharks, eagle rays, schools of jacks and snappers, soft corals on the north side and green turtles on top. It can have lots of current.

South Male: Rasdhoo Madivaru

A channel dive with a ridge facing the ocean, with grey reef and whitetip sharks, eagle rays and large dogtooth tuna. The ridge drops to 45 metres on the outside, and with first light and an incoming current there is a chance of hammerhead sharks. Reef hooks are advisable.

North Ari: Maaya Thila

A thila about 75 metres across, considered one of the best night dives in the Maldives. The top reef at 5 metres is easy to reach, with fusiliers, snappers, big jacks, whitetip reef sharks, stingrays, moray eels and turtles, and grey reef sharks with the right current.

North Ari: Bathalaamaagaa Kanthila

A long coral ridge in the middle of a channel, sloping gradually to 25 metres and deeper, with grey reef and whitetip sharks, eagle rays, napoleon wrasse and schools of jacks and fusiliers. A negative entry and reef hooks are recommended.

South Ari: Moofushi Kandu (Manta Point)

A drift dive with a chance to see mantas over the cleaning stations at 12 to 23 metres, popular in the north-east monsoon, with whitetip reef sharks, blue-striped snappers and fusiliers.

South Ari: Kudarah Thila

In a Marine Protected Area, often considered the most beautiful site of the atoll, with sea fans in overhangs, healthy soft corals, big schools of snappers, fusiliers and jacks, and groupers in the small caves.

South Ari: Kudhimaa Wreck

A 46 metre cargo ship sunk in 1998 on a sandy bottom at about 27 metres, with coral growth, nurse sharks, batfish, stonefish, lionfish and moray eels, and entrances to the cargo hold and wheelhouse. Protected from the current.

South Ari: Maamigili Beyru (whale shark search)

On the southern tip of the atoll, in the South Ari Marine Protected Area. A shallow and easy dive, known as the best place in the Maldives to spot whale sharks, which cruise the reef all year round.

Vaavu: Miyaru Kandu

A channel dive not to be missed. With a strong incoming current there are grey reef and whitetip sharks, eagle rays, napoleon wrasse and tuna, with visibility up to 36 metres in the north-east monsoon.

Vaavu: Alimatha House Reef

One of the best night dives in the Maldives, with a show of nurse sharks, stingrays and massive jacks every night.

Meemu: Muli Corner

A reef home to many sharks with the incoming current, and a large manta cleaning station with the outgoing current. Enter with an empty BCD and do not waste time at the surface.

Dhoni diving

All dives are made from a spacious 60 foot dhoni (tender) that is fully equipped for 28 passengers, so the comfort of guests comes first. Depths are 12 to 30 metres, the water is 27 to 30 C, and a 3 mm wetsuit is recommended.

Currents

In January and February the currents can be very strong, and the big animal activity can be fantastic, so divers should be ready for a more challenging environment. Reef hooks are used in the channels.

Seasons

Manta rays can be seen all year, with the best encounters from May to November, and whale sharks are best seen in April, May, October and November.

The last day has a Male city walking tour and a farewell dinner ashore.
